REAL ESTATE

Chas. C. McRae is a real estate agent and broker. He has been in the business for many years and has a large number of clients. He is located at 100 N. Main St., Florala, Ala.

The Indian Land Scandal

The latest example of our Federal government's tender care for its Indian wards is shown in the Indian land scandal. At one time, when the handling of Indian affairs was largely in the hands of the military officers, a strenuous effort was made to Washington and the benevolent chief agent was put in charge. This was supposed to be of great advantage to the Indians and was hailed with enthusiasm by the ones who had suffered most under the military rule.

It is undoubtedly true that many of the military officers who had practical control over the Indians, were a bit over-anxious to make them into "good Indians" as rapidly as possible, but it is also true that the great majority of them were men of a better understanding of the Indian's needs and more practical methods of handling their savage charges than the civilian officials have displayed.

Callin, the great student and writer of Indian affairs, gives some very interesting comparisons between the military and civilian methods of handling the red children of the wilderness, and if his statements are correct, it would seem that the changes of life, liberty, etc., were much better under their military rule, even if they sometimes squandered their charges rather severely, than under the care of the more lenient civil nurse, who allowed them more liberty, but made more of their ill.

We, as a nation, have already shown over most of our land, liberty and easement, and given them in exchange whiskey, tobacco and a superannuated old man in the very rear fathers. We are inclined to sympathize with one James O. Easton, who declared that he would rather be a "bad Indian" and fight than to be a "good Indian" and starve to death.

Fine Issues

We have received at The News office a copy of the Birmingham Ledger's annual educational number, issued July 30.

This is one of the most complete numbers of the kind that has come to our notice, and reflects the greatest credit upon the Ledger. It is handsomely printed and full of illustrations, an excellent and interesting treat about southern schools and colleges, a beautiful specimen of the printer's art. We advise every one to read a copy, and we wish to commend the Ledger upon the publication of a most interesting and artistic piece of work.

It is scarcely to be hoped that we are hearing the last of the proposed marriage between Miss Elkins and the Duke de Alencar. It is now stated that the latter "knows that he" have consented to allow his noble daughter to marry Miss Elkins. Now if Miss Elkins will only make up her mind to marry him, or consent him, or trade him to some one other whom she is longing to gather in a little at the office expense of a few millions of dollars, we will be glad to hear that the subject is dropped, not good, and along with the reasonable desire did not win the fight and other equally tireless objections.

From what we can learn, in all parts of the country, Green county will have more corn this year than she has ever raised. And for the surplus corn, each man will want a spring pig, and for each surplus bale of cotton, which means "high living and low 'high priced' living. Cotton may be king down south but corn is the queen. And a king without a queen makes a mighty poor government, and a queen without a king makes a very poor one. -Editor Democrat.

Stock-law Passed.

We note that DePue's Springs intends to curtail the liberty of the new after September 1st, and will deprive her of the privilege of using the public street as a pasture and logging road.

The News is a strong advocate of civic improvement, but just think this carrying it too far. Imagine how thousands Florida would appear without the hardy of gentle lines which now grace our bosoms. Suppose one sees occasionally a citizen or two, or two of the sidewalk and make him "trick" through the mud as he makes an effort around that portion of the walk which "blows" has pre-empted for her own use. It is nothing to be sneezed about. It makes business good for the poor bootblack, and furnishes a little good wholesome exercise for persons of a sedentary habit of life.

It is merely nothing to invite a man to hunt a cub and "hate" the gentle creature over the nose until she patiently gives up her selected spot, and meekly seeks another.

What if she does occasionally knock down a few panels of the garden fence and eagerly push down all the corn in the garden to work up an appetite which will enable her to launch off about thirty dollars worth of snuff boxes, and similar dainties.

Surely, a man would show a parsimonious disposition if he objected to spending a few hours per day with a hoe and sprinkling pot in order that she might become a fashionable citizen of grass and corn and enjoy a bit of nice fresh fruit. And surely, a man who could object to putting up a few panels of fence every day or two, must be lacking in mercy.

By all means, let us be good to the cow. Let her eat out of the garden if she so desires. Every one else enjoys fresh garden truck, and why not the cow? And let her use the sidewalks and piazzas if she wishes. We are taught to be kind to dumb animals, and just think how much pleasure it affords the stranger visiting in the city to see the gentle animals browsing in the garden with serene confidence in the kindness and hospitality of the man who raised the crop, and playfully chasing one another and their wives out into the mud, where they can jump and splash and get close to nature again.

By all means let us keep the cow.

Dysentery is a dangerous disease but can be cured. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has been successfully used in nine eighths of dysentery. It is never better known to fail. It is equally valuable for children and adults and when reduced with water and sweetened, it is pleasant to take. Sold by all dealers.

Capt. Gen. W. Ely, traveling passenger agent of the Southern Pacific railroad, was shot accidentally last Friday by his associate, Edwin S. Longley at Hartsburg, Ga., the home of Mr. Longley. Mr. Ely was carried immediately to Montgomery for medical attention.

Dr. William L. Heflin, father of Congressman J. Thomas Heflin, died at his home in Escobedo, Randolph county last Saturday from a stroke of apoplexy. He was 62 years of age and was one of the oldest physicians in the state.

In buying a cough medicine, don't be afraid to get Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it, and relief is sure to follow. Especially recommended for croup, colds, and whooping cough. Sold by all dealers.

A little negro boy, charged with postoffice robbery at Ft. Temple, was ordered recently thrashed by Judge Jones of his U. S. court at Montgomery. The father of the young culprit did the whipping in the presence of a deputy marshal.

One day, it is estimated, may lose $154,000,000 decreed in one session, if nature is allowed to "take its course." See if you can't kill this fly on your premises, or prevent its breeding there.

Sound Views.

In conversation with one of the most intelligent and progressive citizens of Florak, we were strongly impressed with the clearness and common sense of his views upon the subject of schools. Among other things he said, "the greatest need of the fourth today is a realization of the desirability and absolute necessity of more facilities for education. A great many of the Southern people who have been successful in their own particular lines of industry feel that an education which was good enough to enable them to make a satisfactory living, should be enough to enable their children to do the same.

They fall to take into consideration that these have changed since they made their own start in life and the education which was sufficient to hold their own in the strenuous struggle, is woefully inadequate equipment for fighting the battles of competition today.

The class of work which was in demand fifty years ago, was entirely different from that which is required today, and even the common laborer now has had a reasonable amount of education in order to perform his part of the world's work with success.

No artisan would expect to compete with his peers successfully if he were forced to labor with the comparatively primitive tools of the last generation, and much less can a man expect to become a factor in business unless he is forced to depend upon the limited amount of education which was enough to carry his father or grandfather to a satisfactory position in the community.

The industrial battles of the past were fought, and were fought with "brass" and "iron" and "grit." The problem which confronts us today can not be solved in the same way.

What we need now to carry us on to success is not "grit," but "brains" and the man with a poorly trained mind, be he ever so willing an industrious, is bound to fail in the rush for fortune and fame.

If we can leave our children worth, we will be giving them a start to success, but unless we can leave them an education sufficient to guide them in the disposition and handling of it, it will not stay with them long, and the fight will leave them more helpless than before.

Most of us are unable to bestow much property on our children, but we can all give them what is of much greater value, an education which will allow them to take a place in the world's progress, and hold it.

The efficiency of our schools is the measure of the coming generation's fitness for the battle of life, and whatever else may be allowed to fall behind, let us give the school, the best we have to give, both in money and moral support, and we may be sure that the tasks which we may be laid down unthinkingly, will be carried on to successful issue by the generation which will come after us.

It seems to us that these ideas are worthy of consideration by all members of a community and we heartily endorse them. If we are obliged to let anything get along with less than the proper support, let it be anything else than the school.

We clip the following from the Andalusia Star of August 11. "A Panhandle newspaper says it is close touch with two high officials of the Georgia Central road. These officials told the editor that the newspapers at Andalusia are proposing to pay for an extension of Panhandle and an extension from Andalusia to the state. See also New Orleans.

Richard Thine, Montgomery millionaire, has petitioned the city council to allow him to erect a complete electric plant in that city.

General News.

Professor W. Cooper of Johns Hopkins 1910. His death is remarkable because it occurred in his 24th year. "That was the age at which his father and eight of his father's brothers died. Recently Cooper became ill as his 20th year approached. At half way mark, a presentiment seemed to come to him and he said, speaking of his mother, 'I can only live until then, why I'll live to be a thousand.' A short time ago when Cooper was taken sick with typhoid fever, the inevitable brooding over the fate of his father and his uncles, hastened the progress of the disease.

Collegiate students farmers would do well to read the following, taken from the Florida Times-Union: "Northern farmers are getting rich raising hogs on lands that cost $150 to $200 an acre, and in a climate which makes the cost of raising them much greater than it would be in Florida. In this state they are raised for 2 to 3 cents per pound, and the retail price of their meat runs from 10 to 25 cents a pound, according to the time of the year. The Times-Union would observe, there is a great profit in hogs which cost 2 cents a pound to raise to 10 cents."

According to a report recently received at Andalusia, we are the first ones to be notified when they receive their mail. The report is that the mail from the Florida Times-Union is getting rich raising hogs on lands that cost $150 to $200 an acre, and in a climate which makes the cost of raising them much greater than it would be in Florida. In this state they are raised for 2 to 3 cents per pound, and the retail price of their meat runs from 10 to 25 cents a pound, according to the time of the year. The Times-Union would observe, there is a great profit in hogs which cost 2 cents a pound to raise to 10 cents."

This cheering bit of news comes from Gadsden, March county. "No crop has ever before had such the advance during a few weeks that has been shown by the cotton crop of Ethaw county. It is now believed that almost a 4 cent yield is raised, between 15,000 and 15,000 bales. The corn crop is the pride of the farmers all over the country and it is not believed that the farmers of this section will find it necessary to buy corn during the next twelve months.

W. O. Carley of Pick, Hurst is, was an Opp proponent and intervened the Messenger with an account of his success as a truck farmer. From a quarter of an acre of watermelons he realized $20, and from his watermelon gathered and canned 2,000 pounds of tomatoes. Mr. Carley has a large raising of eggs and has canned enough fruit and vegetables to supply his table for another year. -Opp Messenger.

Extensive preparations are being made for the approaching August commencement at Shelby Springs August 23rd. Among the noted men who are expected to be present are: Dr. J. W. Abernethy, state university; Dr. A. P. Montague, Howard university; Dr. T. W. Patton, Mississippi industrial school; Hon. H. S. D. Mallory of Selma; and many other prominent and other states.

Hon. A. E. Gibson of Greenville, and Attorney Leigh of E. are well by candidates to represent Judge J. B. Richardson as circuit judge from the second judicial district. It is generally thought, however, that State Senator Brock D. Slaughter of E. will be the lucky applicant.

Fifty Mobile members of the Alabama national guard have agreed to join General McArthur's National Guard, and to be organized as a unit of the National Guard. Each man will receive $10 per day for the service.

A public demonstration of such an affair was held at Wetumpka, Ala., on the 15th inst. It was said to be the first and most notable gathering ever held in that part of the state.
